New Family, New Destiny

A new family, new destiny, new principal, new building. This school year has been full of surprises. With so many adaptations for the students to make, how did we survive? It was nothing but that BULLDOG PRIDE!!!

Once again, the freshmen were excited about making the transition from middle school to high school. The sophomores finally realized what it means to be a true bulldog. The juniors can't wait to take the GGT, new SAT, and experience the prom. While seniors are still counting down to graduation.

The beginning of a new life will start as soon as the class of 2006 walks out of the doors of Booker T. Washington High School. Seniors will be adjusting to the transition into real life, while Washington High students will still be adjusting to the transition into the new, remodeled school. All of these factors will be a part of our quest for a New Family, New Destiny.

Teacher of the Year Mr. Brandon Fears

Bronson Alcott summarizes, "The provinces of the instructor should be... awakening, invigorating, directing..." These words describe my experiences with early childhood teachers who saturated me with positive and creative learning experiences that birthed the spirit that eventually manifested itself in the desire to help my young classmates in mathematics. I remember modeling and guiding them through addition, subtraction, division, and multiplication. I recall making a game of multiplication tables. Classmates who recited correctly received praise, but those who could not were encouraged to study. It was at the age of twelve that I knew that I was called to awaken invigorated, and direct. It was at that age I understood that I was destined to be an educator and committed to helping children reach their full potential.

It is my belief that people are "called to teach." Teachers always enjoy guiding a group, sharing information and ideas with others and discovering what everyone can do together in a common positive effort. In retrospect, my parents, my first teachers, laid the foundation. Their lessons of respect, courtesies, and values formed my character and my attitude that prepared me for a lifetime of learning.

After graduating from Clark Atlanta University in 1998 with both a Bachelor of Science and a Master of Science Degree in Pure Mathematics, I began my career as a high school mathematics teacher in Atlanta Public Schools. I chose mathematics because it is the way to understand the world. Mathematics is the study of form and structure. It is pure logic; it is a mind game, as challenging a mind game as any you will find. I enjoy challenging students with content that they feel is difficult, but they soon learn that is attainable and exciting.

Outside of the classroom, I currently work as a coach for girls' softball and boys' baseball. Coaching allows me to know my students on a different level. As a coach, I am the most important role model during the season. Players look to me for guidance and instruction and watch how I react to every situation. Coaching allows me to teach students professional conduct and the importance of maintaining self-respect in all situations.

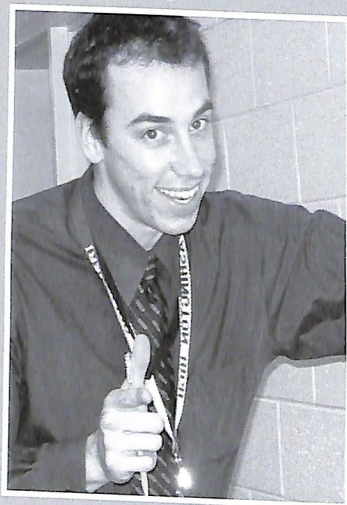

In order to take my love for children and the desire to impact a whole community outside of the classroom to the next level, I am currently pursuing my Specialist degree in Educational Administration and Leadership at Central Michigan University. Upon graduation I hope to become a stronger advocate for the kids by pursuing a career, which allows me to affect a larger population of students.

Your World

Your world is as big as you make it.
I know, I used to abide
In the narrowest nest in a corner,
My wings pressing close to my side.

But I sighted the distant horizon
Where the skyline encircled the sea
And I throbbed with a burning desire
To travel this immensity.

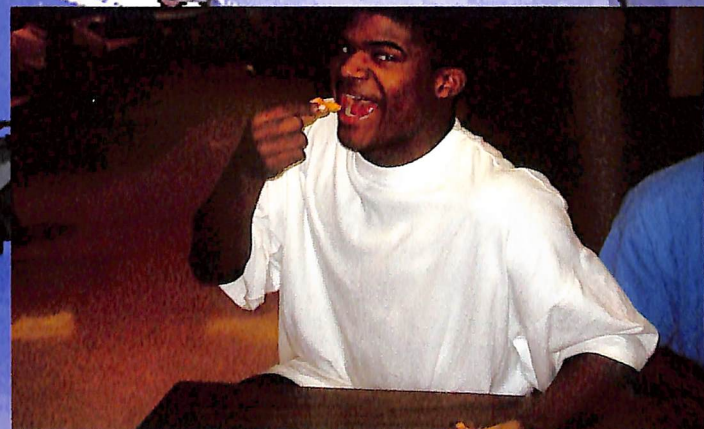

I battered the cordons around me
And cradled my wings on the breeze,
Then soared to the uttermost reaches
With rapture, with power, with ease!

Congratulations!

You have worked hard and we wish you all the best!

Love,
Your Family: Uncle
Gary, Aunt Helen,
and Jade
