The 2012-2013 Yearbook Committee

This Year's Theme: Continuing the Legacy of Excellence

The illustrious Booker T. Washington High School has a rich history echoing sounds of success and excellence. Its walls are painted with the names of alumni who went on to be great; such as, Dr. Martin Luther King, Lena Horne, Julian Nipsey Russell, and Elmore Spencer III. These amazing figures left a legacy that we are charged to equal or surpass. It has become our duty as fellow Washingtonians to take the baton and blaze our own paths to success in order to continue this rich legacy of excellence.

Yearbook Committee Pulling It All Together

In the beginning we were all excited and presented a number of great ideas to add to the yearbook. Creating the yearbook took hard work and dedication. Despite the chaos and obstacles we faced creating it, the committee came together and created one of the most memorable yearbooks ever.

Continuing a Legacy of Excellence

In August of 2009, we entered the hallowed halls of Booker T. Washington High School. We faced many challenges, but we triumphed. Our high school experiences are not as important as the footprints we leave behind for others to follow. We did not opt the easy and well-trodden road; rather, we chose to venture down the road rarely traveled---one paved with academic excellence and personal success. We never sacrificed convictions for a place in the sun or easy gain, but we kept to the true and right path. We will not count our wealth in riches for our footprints will show we walked a path of success.

Our Origins of Tradition

Named after the famous educator, Booker T. Washington High School opened in 1924 under the auspices of the Atlanta Board of Education, with the late Charles Lincoln Harper as principal. Understood to be the first high school in the state of Georgia and the Atlanta Public Schools for African Americans, Booker T. Washington High School continues to serve as a landmark in history.

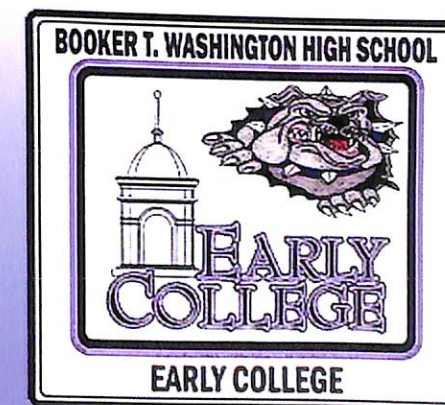

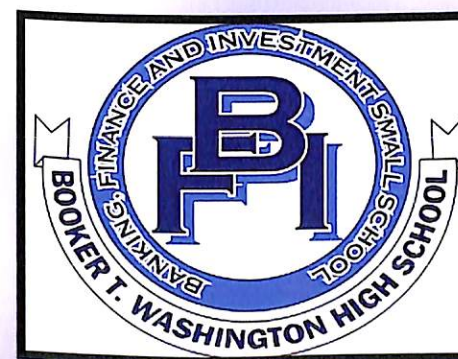

Throughout its years, Booker T. Washington has educated many historical figures such as Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Leroy Johnson, Lena Horne, Nathaniel Bronner, and Louis Sullivan. All of these iconic legends have graduated and gone on to become very important figures that many idolize.

As the graduating Class of 2013, we plan to follow in their legendary footsteps as we go on to make interminable impacts and continue a legacy of excellence.

Small School History

The implementation of small schools at Booker T. Washington High School began August 2009. They were implemented to improve the graduation rate of 90 percent within four years; ensure that APS graduates are ready for college and post-secondary opportunities; make APS the first choice among students and parents in Atlanta; and provide learners with a world-class education. Now, in 2013, the first graduating class under the small school concept will have students attending college, joining the military, or entering the world of work in the fall as they fulfill their destiny to be the best!

A Message From Doc

Dear Scholars of Washington High School-Banking, Finance & Investment:

We may not have journeyed a thousand miles, but we have taken many steps towards achieving our goals...

This year commenced very successfully with the implementation of the national curriculum. The ongoing professional development for teachers has placed us in a very good position in terms of curriculum delivery.

At Washington High School-Banking, Finance and Investment, the purpose of education is not only to produce excellent results in the key learning areas, but also to develop students skills so that they can contribute to the wider community as good citizens of the community.

The students from Washington-BFI never cease to amaze me, too shy to speak when you first entered our school and who are then nine months later bursting through the doors shouting your morning greetings with such confidence. Students who were not on the right track are now being able to perform so well in clases; are a true delight to observe. It is a thrill to watch you being the best you can in all of the activities you have been a part of.

Our school has participated in state and national programs from various Universities and the State of Georgia. From this we have achieved wonderful commendations from each entity. Besides progressing academically, you have been exposed to a range of extra-curricular activities throughout the year. As you go through the pages of our year book you will witness and appreciate the wonderful work done by our yearbook staff during the course of this year.

Such a successful year does not happen without the energy and cooperation of many talented and experienced people. I appreciate and thank our teachers for their positive contributions to the school. My sincere appreciation to our class of 2013; the legacy class! You have been the trend setters for the school of Banking, Finance & Investment! I am so proud of you and how you all have grown into mature young ladies and young men. I know you will make us proud. To the classes of 2014, 2015 and 2016, I encourage you to continue with an ATTITUDE OF EXCELLENCE! We will strive to make BFI even better than what it already is. To all teachers, let the spirit of cooperation, mutual respect, and personal responsibility spur us to greater heights of academic excellence. We are all different but we are part and parcel of the whole system. We need each others support for every step forward. I sincerely thank parents and volunteers for having trust in us and supporting us throughout the year to make teaching and learning a success.

Finally, the success of our school is due to the contributions of all stakeholders. Again, I thank you so much for all you do and remember EXCELLENCE IS AN ATTITUDE and no one can take that from us!

Forever Blue and White,

Dr. Nichols

KOURTNEY R. MOSLEY

"Success for myself as well as others is my priority."

Frank Clark admonishes "If you can find a path with no obstacles, it probably doesn't lead anywhere." Kourtney has always been dedicated and serious about her education. A natural born leader, Kourtney holds leadership positions in many clubs and organizations, such as the executive level president of the Student Government Association and Editor and Chief of the Washingtonian yearbook committee. In addition, she is a member of the 21st Century Leaders, Project Grad (Graduation Really Achieves Dreams) Student Leadership Team, Future Business Leaders of America and Booker T. Washington High School Student Ambassador. Kourtney was the only student from Booker T. Washington High School to receive the prestigious Posse Full Tuition Leadership Scholarship Award. There is no doubt that when she leave the halls of Booker T. Washington High School she will positively impact many lives. Kourtney plans to attend Brandeis University in Waltham, MA in the fall of 2013 and major in Mathematics.

"Every man and woman is born into the world to do something unique and something distinctive and if he or she does not do it, it will never be done." - Benjamin E. Mays

BFI Salutatorian

Alise is an extraordinary young lady with a proclivity towards success. She has had an opportunity to visit the New York Stock Exchange as well as other notable sites in this historical city. Further, she has been privy to job shadowing at Ernst & Young Accounting Firm and the Securities and Exchange Commission. Integrally involved in several clubs and organizations, she was chosen as the Co-editor and Chief of the Washingtonian Yearbook. She has served as the president of the Community Service Club and the Student Government Association.

Early College Highlights

A large, colorful collage of numerous small photographs depicting various scenes of students in a school setting. The photos show students in classrooms, at lockers, in sports uniforms, and in social settings. Some photos include text overlays like "Senior 2:01-3" and "H S". The collage is arranged in a grid-like fashion with overlapping images.

George G. Rutledge

This year we will graduate our first senior class, the Legacy Class, and we are all excited. We are excited because we believe that these students are well prepared to either continue their post-secondary education, for those who have been attending CAU or GSU, to enter the workforce, or the military. They will continue to be critical thinkers, life-long learners and productive citizens.

We have newly elected PTSA officers, and several newly elected parents on our Local School Council, all of whom are excited and poised for a great school year. I want to encourage all of our parents to please come out and support your children and our PTSA.

EC Valedictorian

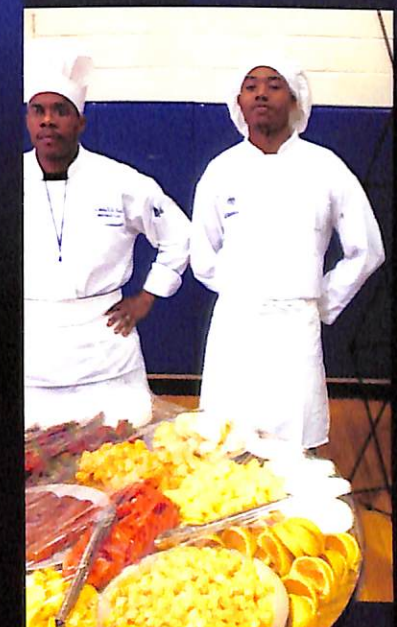

Always steadfast and focused on the future, Parys Middleton has participated in a myriad of enlightening experiences during his enrollment in Booker T. Washington High School Early College. Particularly significant to his academic enhancement was having an opportunity to dually enroll at Georgia State University. Traveling to France and Spain as part of the Study Abroad Program at Georgia State University provided immense academic insight. To further promote his academic fervor, Parys spent the summer of 2012 at Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana. These experiences helped him to flourish as a scholar, role model and humanitarian. This industrious young man has been a stalwart for his family. He superbly balances his academics, varsity basketball (captain) and the responsibility of caring for his younger siblings.

One of his favorite quotes is "Go Hard or Die Trying." He enjoys playing basketball for the school, as well as leisurely, and he takes classes during the summer to better prepare him for the upcoming academic year.

He achieved the role of valedictorian by "Working hard and always making better choices to further his education, such as participating in SMSEA and doing dual enrollment at Georgia State University."

EC Salutatorian

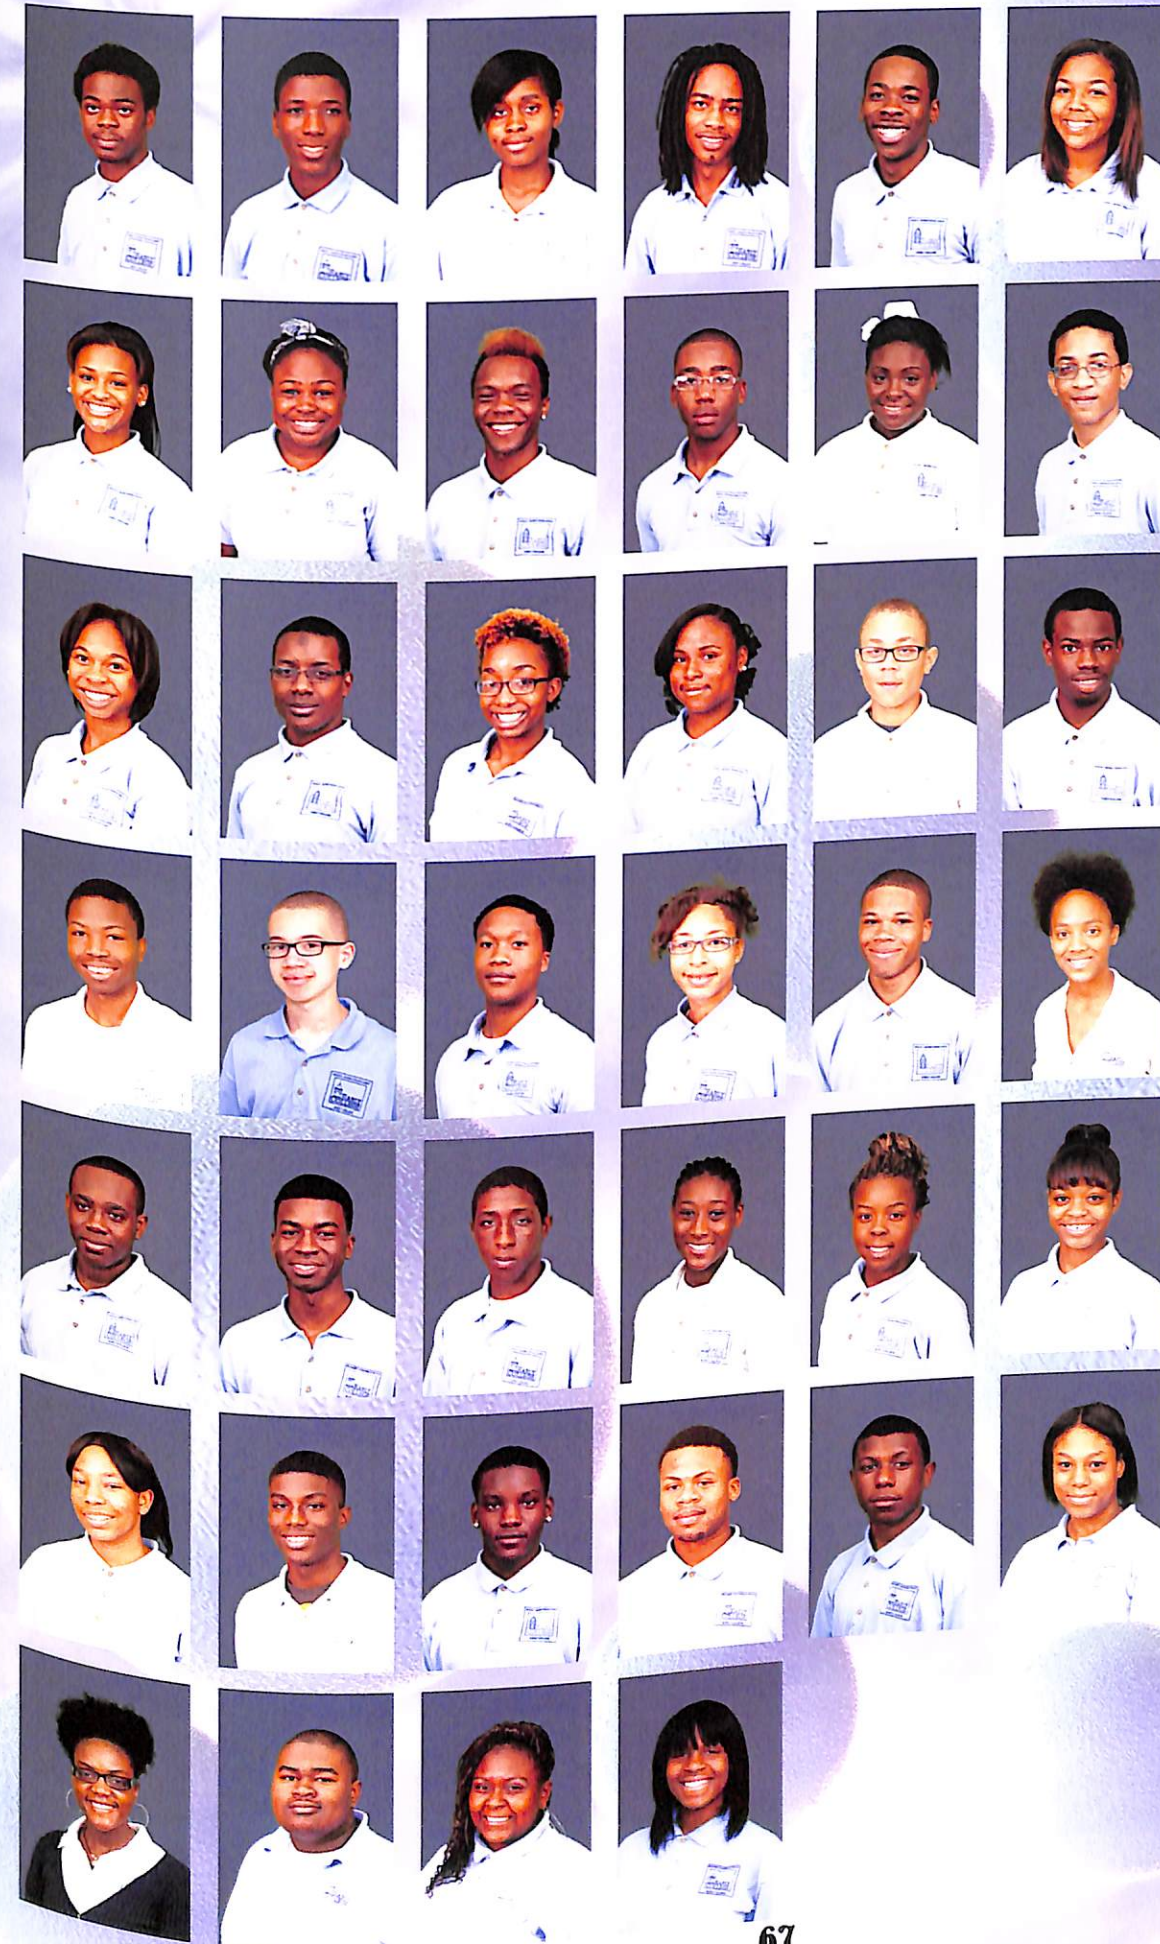

Attending Booker T. Washington was destined for Alexis because she hails from a long line of alumni dating back to the class of 1994. She co-created and proudly holds the position as president of the sisterhood of Concrete Roses, an organization dedicated to the promotion of exquisite scholarly young women. During her junior year, she was awarded the National Society of High School Scholars award and granted the opportunity to be in the first cohort of high school students to dually enroll at Clark Atlanta University. Alexis' ultimate goal in life is to become a syndicated radio personality on the networks of millions and to have a platform similar to Ryan Seacrest. While Alexis is extremely appreciative of all who have assisted her in reaching this milestone in her life, she especially wants to recognize the abiding support of her late grandmother, Doris Ellison.

Welcome to Health, Science and Nutrition

Health, Science and Nutrition

"Training tomorrow's health care providers today!" -HSN

From The Desk of The Principal

To my Washington HSN Graduates and Scholars!

Firstly, to my first graduation class of Washington Health Science & Nutrition, the class of 2013, I cannot express how proud I am of your accomplishments and relentless pursuit towards excellence. You have made the first step to acquire your life-long dreams and goals. Graduation from high school is one of the most important milestones in life because it is the product of many conscious and unconscious choices and decisions. Milestones always represent a time in our lives when we should look backward and tell ourselves that we really have done the right thing, sometimes when that wasn't easy. They also enable us to look forward to promises of good things to come. For the moment, I'd like to reflect on a few things your education at Washington High School of Health Science & Nutrition should have taught you. Among the most important of these is the great value of learning to work and live with people different from yourself. Our only hope of making the world a place where people from different religions, ethnic groups, and cultural backgrounds can live together in harmony is people like you who have acquired the experiences that will help make that happen. One of the great gifts of public education is this gift of diversity. Treasure it, value it; it will serve you well. Not only does your future depend on it, but that of our community, country, and world as well. Your experiences at Washington should also have given you a sense of the common values and beliefs that unite all of us. As different as we are from one another, we are also more alike in many astonishing ways. All of us value love, trust, integrity, honesty, patriotism, our heritage, and more. We realize these commonalities only when we share, as you have, real world experiences in academics, athletics, and extracurricular activities. Your education here should also have taught you that knowledge and skills alone aren't enough. It's how we use the knowledge that we gain that counts. That's what we call wisdom. Wisdom to do the right things not just do things right. Wisdom must in turn be joined with courage, the willingness to act on principle, not moral convenience and compassion, a genuine concern for the well-being of others. Wisdom, courage, and compassion, together, are the foundations for a good and productive life. Finally, it's important to look forward to the time when your education will make it possible for you to participate in the many rich benefits that are part of this country. Ultimately, remember that you will be judged not on whether you took the best from the world, but whether you gave your best. The staff at Washington and I hope that what you have learned at Washington will make it possible for all of you to do just that, give your best. You're an awesome group of young people, and we congratulate you and wish you our best.

Sincerely yours,

Samuel P. Scavella, Ph.D.

Life is filled with many problems and situations. However, in some cases there are things that we are not capable of controlling. Everything in life happens for a reason, even though sometimes, the reason can be horrific. Recently, the years 2012-2013 has had mind blowing events that tore spirits and hearts of people of our beautiful country, the United States of America. In the end, mankind realized only one thing ; mourning changes none, but edification and remembrance changes all

Lance Armstrong is an American former professional road racing cyclist. Lance Armstrong started doping in the mid 90's. He has been stripped of his titles and has also been banned from cycling for life due to doping offenses by the United States Anti-Doping Agency.

Kony is a film to promote the charity "Stop Kony" movement. Joseph Kony started the Lord's Resistance Army (LRA), that has been in a civil war with the Ugandan government since the late 1980's. As of April 4, 2013 there is a $5 million reward for Joseph Kony.

Raven Antiana Sloan,

I didn't know I could love so hard, again, until that blessed day God gave you to me to love. You've grown into a BEAUTIFUL young lady and I can't wait to see you blossom even more. You set goals and you make them happen. You don't allow anything to be an obstacle on your path and that is the key in reaching your journey to be your best self. You are truly an extension of me and I thank God for you adding to my life, being my best friend and being able to love YOU unconditionally!! Mommie and Terry are so PROUD of you! You can be and do anything you want in life just as long as you stay focused on your dreams! CONGRATULATIONS, LadyBug!! I LOVE YOU!!

Congratulations Angelina!

On behalf of the Jackson and Nelms Family, we would like to say what a job well done. Remember this is not the end, but a beginning of a new journey. Never give up, just keep pushing till you make it to the finish line.

Congratulations!

We are so very proud of you and all that you have accomplished. As you follow your dreams, take life hurdles in strides. Seeing you graduate seems like a dream come true, we are so proud of the woman you've become. With your personality you bright up the world. We are happy to see that you have chosen the path of success.

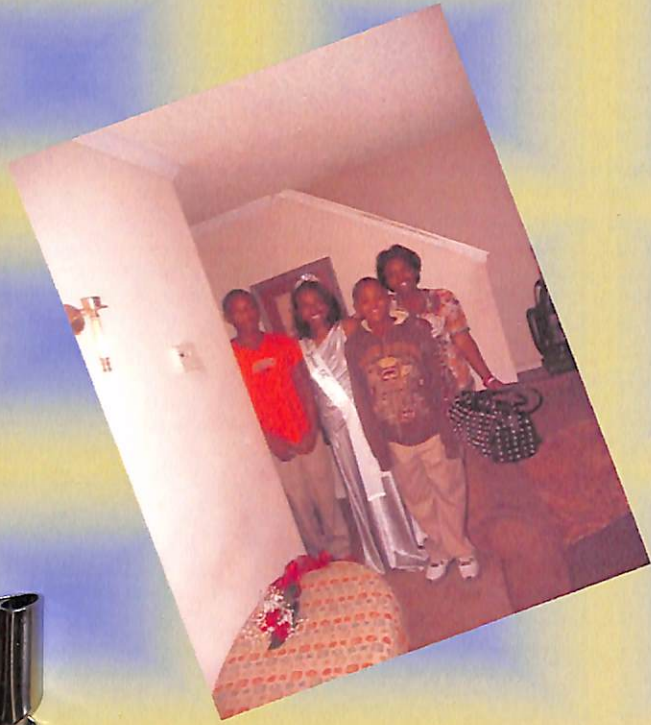

-Mom, Dad, Talahia

Congratulations Angelina Barden on a job well done!

We are so proud of you! You have grown up to be an amazing, intelligent, and charming young woman. Congratulations on four wonderful years. We cannot wait to see the marvelous things you will do. We will be here always to cheer you on your way.

The Barden Family

To our amazing daughter, Lexis, we wish you the best in life.

We are so proud of you and the beautiful person you have become. May the rest of your journey continue to bring you happiness and success. You are destined for great things and we are so proud to be a part of it. Always stay true to your heart, be open to new experiences, make good choices, be proud of all of your accomplishments, and do not forget you were born on St. Patrick's Day for a reason. You are something special! Love Mommy, Amber, and Daddy.

*Congratulations to my grandbaby, Ennie Minnie. We are so proud of you sweetheart and of all that you accomplished. You have grown so fast

From infant to child I know and I am precise. For I am not ashamed of The Gospel of Christ: for it is the Power of God unto salvation. See over the years... The Almighty has become the Apple of my eye. I am ecclesia for Christ and sweet as pie. Though pure as sugar cane, I've shed some tears and felt some pain-but I have support of family and friends. When I leave this "Washington" my life truly begins. God will coast me along the way, as He does for all from bay to bay

PARYS, I'M SO PROUD OF YOU!

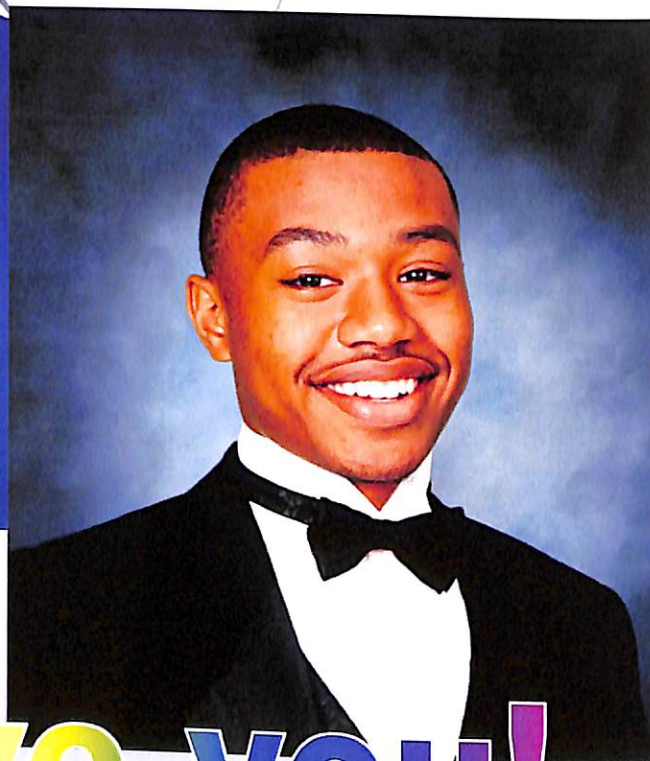

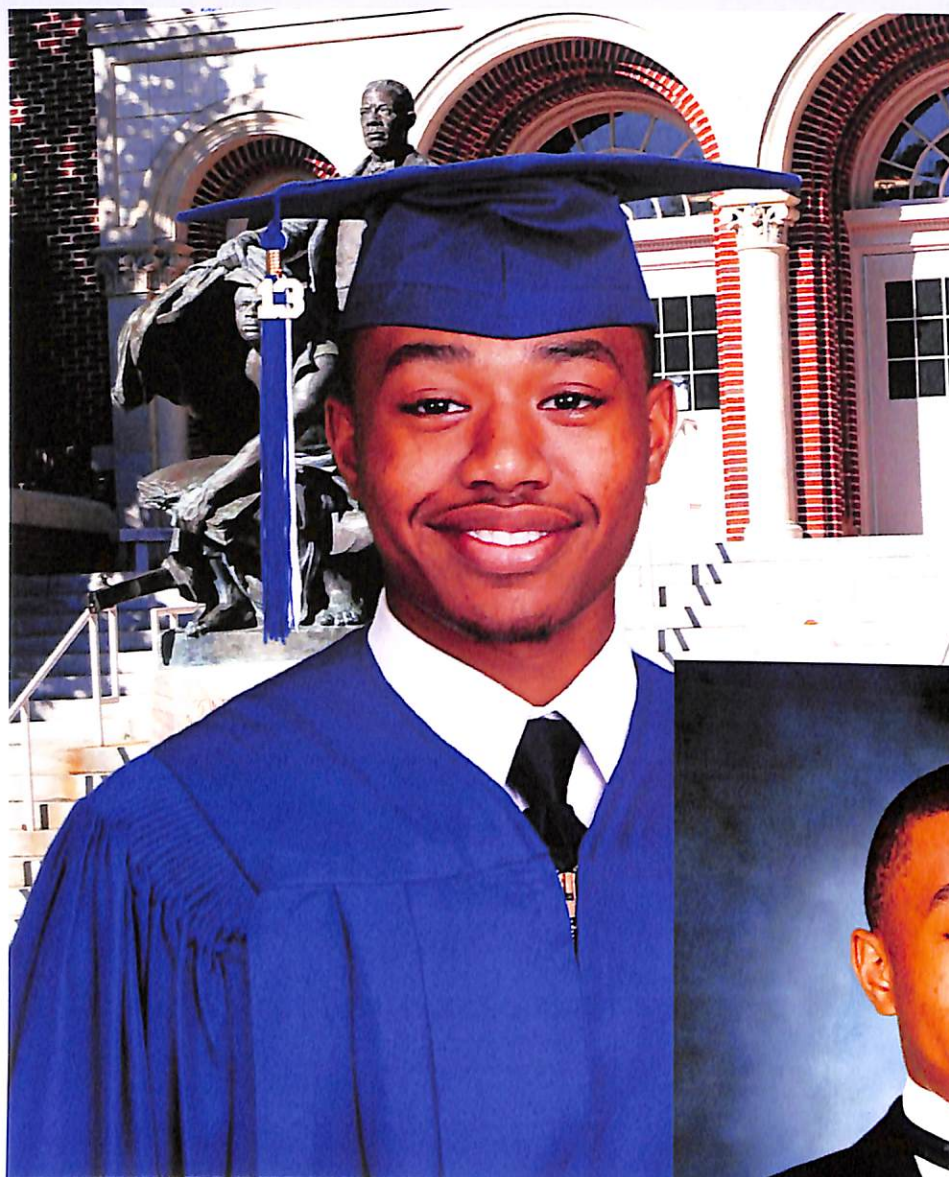

There are times in your life that are memorable occasions: births, birthdays, weddings, anniversary, but there is nothing more memorable than seeing your child graduate as the VALEDICTORIAN of his class! I can't express how very very proud I am of you and the hard work, dedication, discipline and determination you've displayed to achieve the highest degree of academic success on a high school level. The 3 things I asked that you take with you on the next chapter of your life are: keep God first, remember what you've been taught and don't value yourself by other people's standards.

I LOVE SO MUCH!
MOM

Congratulations Parys!!!
