

We envision a place where youth and young adults are embraced and provided with positive opportunities throughout the City of Atlanta. We believe the At-Promise model will help create pathways to success for youth and reduce the number of young people who negatively experience the criminal justice system.

PROGRAM SUMMARY

Atlanta Police Department

With the support of the Fulton County Juvenile Court system, a young person who has committed a minor offense, may be referred to the At-Promise Center at the discretion of the Atlanta Police Department. With parental authorization, a professional assessment will be performed to determine the most effective treatment interventions necessary to best meet the needs of each young adult.

Atlanta Public Schools

A student who attends an Atlanta Public School can be referred to the At-Promise Center for out-of-school treatment services that are beyond the scope of the school system or the youth can walk-in on his or her own to get services from the center.

Fulton County Juvenile Court

Westside youth who have prior misdemeanor convictions or who are currently serving a probation sentence will be referred to the At-Promise Center.

At-Promise Center Village

It takes a village to raise a family, and this network is made up of concerned community members who want to see our young people succeed. With parental consent, the village can refer youth to the At-Promise Center for drop-in services or membership to any of the in-house service providers.
