

NAHS Counseling has partnered with Applerouth to offer a series of SAT/ACT Mock and Diagnostic tests for our students. These events are great opportunities for North Atlanta students to prepare for the official SAT and/or ACT.

There are two types of test prep opportunities which we will offer this year:

- SAT and ACT Mock tests: These are full-length proctored tests which enable students to see where they stand on the test, without the pressure of an official score. Afterwards, a comprehensive score report will help you target areas for improvement and plan for your real test accordingly.
- SAT/ACT Diagnostic Test: This is a full length test which includes a sampling of test items and content from both the SAT and ACT. Afterwards, a comprehensive score report will inform students and parents which of the 2 tests is a better fit for the student. This is an excellent tool for students and parents to identify the test that best matches their strengths in both content and test taking skills.

The PSAT is coming up on October 30th and a great way to prepare is with the NAHS Mock SAT on October 19th.

This upcoming Mock SAT is a great practice opportunity for:

- Seniors taking the November SAT
- Juniors taking the November SAT
- Juniors as prep for PSAT—especially those who may have a shooting for the National Merit Scholarship
- Sophomores as prep for the PSAT—especially those who are considering on doing the IB program next year to help them successfully meet the PSAT score requirement
